Get With the Program, an Article by TechDecisions

Analytics helped segment the good risks from the bad.

Since The Distinguished Program Group (DPG) started its program management business 15 years ago, the company has aggregated a great deal of information about the risks it has written, but like any good underwriter, DPG never seems to have enough information. "One of the things we're constantly asking ourselves is: Can we figure out what caused the claims - the various bits of exposure information - or can we figure out what things correlate with claims?" says Andy Potash, chairman of DPG.
